I'd like to use the wireless switch that came with my wireless router as a built-in switch so that any ethernet devices connected to it work, without having to buy an ethernet switch. However, I'm unsure of how I can do this. I haven't set up a wireless network before. Do I have to change the ip addresses of each device on the LAN, or can I just connect the device to the router as if it was on a wired network? A: If the router is directly connected to the ethernet switch, as the one in your question, then all traffic should flow through the wireless router. However, you can use the router's admin interface 6d1f23a050
